Mitter Huriburt's Special Discatch to The New York World,
Oct. 10.

I believe we will carry Ohio. It still looks I believe we will carry Onio. It still looke that way. During the rast two days the Rejublican leaders, with the outlay of vast sums of money, have gained a little ground but they have much more to gain to save themselves, and I do not believe that they already feel that they are deleated. I regret that the Presidential election does not take place on the same day we elect State officers. If it did Hancock would sweep both Indiana and Ohio.

JUST WHAT DID IT. Special Dispatch to The Albany Argus, Oct. 11.

As the contest in this State closes, to-night, the indications are that the Dispotents will carry the election to-morrow by a sweeping majority. The result will be due to the great popularity of Hamesek and the extraordinary industry of Mr. Bachum, the chairman of the Democratic National Commutee.

A MISCALCULATION.

From The Syracuse Courier, Oct. 12.

We expect that the current is set so strongly in favor of a change that the Republicans in Indiana will be beaten.

A GREAT FAITH WRECKED. We believe that Indiana is certain for the Democratic ticket in October by a decent majority, and for Hancock in November by an increased majority.

THE NEWS FROM THE WEST.

HOW IT WAS RECEIVED IN NEW-YORK. HAPPY EFFECT UPON BUSINESS—THE ELECTION OF GARFIELD AND THE PROSPERITY OF THE COUN-

TRY ASSURED. The news of Republican victories in Ohio and Indiana occasioned not only great joy among Republicans in this city, but also a revival of business confidence which was felt immediately in the Stock and Produce Exchanges, and in all commercial circles. It is generally believed that the result in Indiana insures the election of General Garfield and the continuance of a financial policy under which the country is prosperous.

BUSINESS STABILITY ASSURED.

IMMEDIATE EFFECT OF THE NEWS FROM THE WEST ON THE SPOCK AND PRODUCE EXCHANGES-

CONFIDENCE IN THE FUTURE. From the Republican successes in Indiana and Onto the stock market gained fresh courage. For more than a week prices had been wavering within small limits, in doil expectancy of the result of the October elections. New strength was gathered from the magnificent success of the Rpublican demonstration Monday night, and prices showed a marked improvement Tuesday. The anticipations aroused then were more than realized on Tuesday, and yesterday renewed confidence was shown by the increased activity and strength of the stock market. There were no two opinions about the final result of the Presidential election. The Western elections were accepted universally as a sure indication of the drift of public opinion, and among members of the Stock Exchange there was manifest a strong conviction that the election of General Garfield was assured. Even the betting between the members, which had been somewhat in favor of the Democratic candidates, suffered a sudden revulsion, and those who had offered large odds on the election of Hancock yesterday freely offered 2 to 1 on New-York State going Republican. The odds were freely offered, but were not taken with similar confidence.

For several days the stock market had been exessively dull and prices fluctuated within narrow limits. The total transactions Tuesday amounted to only 198,000 shares, but that business largely exceeded that of Monday, which reached only 122,000 shares. On Friday and Saturday the sales barely exceeded 100,000 shares, and the business was confined wholly to the dealings of professional operators. The Republican parade Monday night was a revelation to the average stock specu-lator, and early the next day he sought to buy stocks at previous prices. The result was seen in the larger volume of business and in the higher prices; but even then there was a slight uncertainty as to the final result, and the advance was besitating and uncertain. The announcement yesterday of the results of the elections in Indiana and Ohio put an end at once to these doubts. Every one acknowledged them to be a satisfactory settlement of political questions; of the nnal result no one entertained a doubt. The consequence was a sharp demand for stocks and bends, and as the demand increased prices rapedly advanced. The rise was general, and almost without exception prices closed at the highest figares for the day.

The same strength was shown in the general bond market, Railroad bonds were almost universally higher, and of Government bonds the newer issues made noteworthy advances, Four and one-half per cents rose 112 to 158 per cent, and 4 per cents 134 per cent, closing active and strong at the advance. In every branch of speculation the advance was controlled by the result of the Western elections.

EXULTING ON THE PRODUCE EXCHANGE. There was a general good feeling among the members of the Produce Exchange all day yesterday, and as later returns came in, confirming the reports that Indiana had been carried by the Republicans, there was a more hopeful tone market. There has not been manifested for a long time before such a disposition caperness to get the latest returns from the battle-for legitimate trading. These who had been besita-ground. As the annot seem to offer much consolition to the Democrats. They tried to take the news in the begind their figures was realized, the faces of Republicans beamed as bright and cheery as the sky above them. They had looked forward hopefully to success in who had made a wager of $100 on Monday that Inwho had made a wager of $100 on Monday that Indiana would go Democratic by at least 5,000 majority, stepped up in the most pleasant manner yesterday and tendered his check for that amount. There were numerous Republicans who offered to make wagers of even money that New-York would be carried by the Republicans who offered to make wagers of even money that New-York would be carried by the Republicans but there was a greater scarcity of enthosiastic Democrats than last week.

It was the general expression among the Republican members of the Exchange, tecluding J. Hobart Herrick, Leonard Haselinne, H. M. Regua. George Martin, E. V. Macfarlane, and many others of prominence, that white the effect of the Republican victories would be more perceptible on the Stock Exchange, the effect upon business men would be auch as to inspire confidence and review trade which had become stagmant. It was the opinion that the outlook was much more encouraging, and that not only was New-York sure to go Republican, but that many of the doubtuil States meluding West Virgina; and project of the continued.

Macfarlane, and many others of prominence, that white the effect of the Republican victories would be more perceptible on the Stock Exchange, the effect upon business men would be such as to inspire confidence and revive trade which had become stagnant. It was the opinion that the outlook was much more encouraging, and that not only was New-Yerk sure to go Republican but that many of the doubtful States, including West Virginia and Fierida, could be safely counted among the Republican States. They could see no other effect than that the like-warm and undecided voters would support the Republican ticket.

Several merchants who have confidently declared that Indiana would surely go Democratic, said: "Off course, we expected defeat;" and others had the blame of their disappointment upon Mr. English, for giving them so much encouragement.

BUSINESS MEN FOR NATIONAL PROSPERITY. Thomas Hillhouse, Assistant United States Freas nrer, said: "Reasoning from probabilities, there is little doubt of the result of the Presidential campaign. Even if the Republicans had lost Indiana, and their chances of carrying it at no time appeared very great, we should still have had hopes of New-York. The business men, who are the deeply interested in this campaign, and their influence is very great. They, as a rule, are party men to a degree only, and when their business interests | the day to hear further news from Indiana, and are antagonistic to the claims of their party they let the party go. I might even put it on higher grounds. I say the merchants and business men always worked and voted for the party best calculated to increase the material prosperity of the country, but this after all is the same thing. The business men of New-York, and perhaps of the whole country, are alarmed at the thought of any change at the present time, and believe it would be disastous. There is every indication that New-York, and, in all probability, New-Jersey and Connecticut, will go Repub-

John A. Stewart, president of the United States Trust Company, said to a TRIBUNE reporter that the Republican victory in Indiana and Ohio might have some influence upon the vote of New-York State, but not, in his opinion, upon the vote of the business men of the city. They already foresaw the danger to be apprehended from any great political danger to be apprehended from any great political change, and were directing their efforts to a continuance of our present prosperous condution. The defeat of the Republican party in the Presidential election would be a National calamity.

Ex-Congressional John D. Lawson said; "The result in the two States is going to set things booming again. There has been a feeling of uncertainty in business circles, as people feared that if the Democrats should be successful the trade of the country would be unsettled. Now, however, that victory is assuined, business will revive with fresh vigor, James A, Garfield will be our aext President." James A. Gartield will be our next President."

> INTEREST IN THE COURT ROOMS. LAWYERS OF BOTH PARTIES ANXIOUS TO OBTAIN THE LATEST NEWS - WHAT THE ELECTIONS

The Republican lawyers had all the amusement and fun to themselves in the courts yesterday. The chaffing began while the counsel were waiting in the court-rooms for the Judges to come in and call the calendars. The Democrats were moody and replied to the sallies of the others with earnest inquires about certain of their law cases. "This isn't going to turn out as badly as it looks now," was the most encouraging way in which the Democrats could speak of the result. "The corn-fields have been heard from," enthusiastically cried one Republican lawyer regardless of the fact that Chief Judge Daly had entered the room. The Judge looked very grave but said nothing. Great anxiety was exhibited during every new comer was questioned as to the prophecies of the bulletin-boards.

The opinion generally expressed among lawyers of both parties was that the morning's news, if corroborated, would determine the result in November. The feeling common among the Republicans was epitomized by John E. Parsons, who said to a TRIBUNE reporter; "I think the October elections will knock Hancock higher than a kite. The result in Omo and Indiana, and particularly in Indiana, in view of the stress laid upon it by both parties, is a very strong indication of the trend of public sentiment. It was made a test of political feeling, and if the Republicans have really obtained the victory they claim it practically set les the question of the November election. On the other hand, if Indiana should prove to be Democratic by a considerable unjoirty, both the effect and the indications would point in the other direction. At all events the result in Omo must strengthen the Republicans."

Wheeler H. Peckham had been standing by while Mr. Parsons was talking, and he was appealed to for his opinion from the Democratic point of view. His answer was: "The morning papers say that the Democratic point of view. His answer was: "The morning papers say that cent." I am reticent." will knock Hancock higher than a kite. The result in
